WTA4LOVE – SUPPORTING THE GLOBAL COMMUNITY

- As part of the ongoing humanitarian campaign, WTA4Love, more than 100 community initiatives have been undertaken by WTA players and partners since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic in March.
- Many players are stepping up again to raise awareness by wearing WTA4Love patches during competition in support of the ongoing campaign as we return to play.
- WTA4Love initiatives have provided COVID-19 support ranging from donations of medical equipment to hospitals, including 30,000 masks donated to medical professionals through the efforts of the players and WTA Charities.
- Food insecurity has also been addressed by providing 24,000 meals to families and frontline workers and through fundraisers for local foodbanks. WTA Charities will continue to support the ongoing needs of communities with upcoming donations of 100,000 meals in partnership with Lilly Pulitzer.
- “WTA4Love” is a global campaign with activities and donations by players and WTA Charities in 14 of the countries which are home to WTA tournaments and most impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic, including China, Spain, the United Kingdom and the United States, among others.
- In addition to the urgent focus on the COVID-19 pandemic, WTA Charities has continued to support a wide range of nonprofit organizations including live video chats teaching leadership and character development to youth and offering support and positive messaging to Special Olympics participants.

CONTRASTING PATHS

Last year’s semifinalist Amanda Anisimova has started this year’s campaign in fine fettle, dropping the fewest number of games of any player left in the draw, requiring under an hour to see off first Tamara Korpatsch and then Bernarda Pera by the same 6-2 6-0 scoreline.

Kiki Bertens, meanwhile, has been taken the distance in both her opening matches, coming perilously close to defeat against 2012 runner-up Sara Errani on Wednesday, saving a match point in a dramatic final set. In total, the Dutchwoman has already spent well over five hours on court.

TEENAGE KICKS

Four of the 11 teenagers to start the main draw are still alive and kicking in Paris. While Amanda Anisimova and Iga Swiatek, both enjoyed extended stays in the French capital last year, it is uncharted territory for tournament debutantes Clara Burel and Leylah Fernandez.

At 19 years and six months old, Burel is the youngest Frenchwoman to reach the third round on home soil since an 18-year-old Alizé Cornet did so in 2008. Should Burel continue her run by upsetting No.39 Zhang Shuai in the next round, she will become the youngest French player to advance that far since Mary Pierce in 1994.

SCATTERED SEEDS

Fiona Ferro’s upset of Elena Rybakina on Thursday means that for the first time since the introduction of 32 seeds at 2001 Wimbledon, only 13 of the elite have made the third round at a major.

In the 76 Slams using the 32-seed format prior to this, the fewest to make this juncture had been 14, at the Australian Open in 2016.

In addition to this, with Barbora Krejcikova, Tsvetana Pironkova, Anna Karolina Schmiedlova and Nadia Podoroska situated in the same section of the top half of the draw, Roland Garros is guaranteed at least one unseeded quarterfinalist for the ninth year in a row.

QUALIFIED SUCCESS

Irina Bara, Nadia Podoroska and Martina Trevisan did not have a Grand Slam main draw win between them heading into the Roland Garros fortnight.

However, the trio have successfully cleared the opening two hurdles to ensure that for the second time in the past nine editions of the tournament three players from the qualifying draw have advanced to the third round.

¡VAMOS ARGENTINA!

Nadia Podoroska is enjoying a year to remember. Having started the campaign ranked No.255, the 23-year-old is now on the cusp of breaking into the Top 100 for the first time.

Victory over the in-form Yulia Putintseva in the second round was the 40th of a remarkable campaign. Should she continue her run by beating Anna Karolina Schmiedlova on Friday she will become the first Argentinian woman to reach the last 16 in Paris since Gisela Dulko in 2011.
